this is a story i heard a long time ago:

there was a young girl who lived with her stepmother and stepsister. (no, she was not cinderella). the stepmother was very wicked and ordered the girl to walk for a mile or more on a hot summer's day to fetch a pail of well water. [...]

Delivering the Winning Proposal

#13;

If business proposals were judged solely on their weight and volume (rather than content and focus), then most of them would be very successful.

The problem is that, somewhere in sales folklore, there are two fairy-stories about proposals that, most proposal writers appear to believe, will cast the magic 'buy-this-one' spell over any prospective customer.

The stories [...]

The Dragon has played an important part in myths and religions since pre-historic times. The history of dragons goes back at least six thousand years, and there are dragon tales and legends from every continent except Antarctica. In almost every culture, and all throughout history, there are stories of these mythical and magical creatures called [...]

Lilka ran.

Birds cried.

Some ways ahead, she glimpsed a wooly gray cloak swish out of sight beyond a hill Stanislaw. Her dark eyes widened in recognition.

'Stanislaw!' she chirruped. 'Wait for me, my lamb! My wizard!'

The wind kissed her bonny face, tangled her skirts. She cried out in laughter and swept her arms about like pinwheels. Glitter shot [...]

Help me with my short story? ideas to end it?

I see thy love in the distance breathless gasping for air, for in thy dreams you were there awakening to the bleakness in my room as my eyes begin to blur reality sets and starts the fear for do dreams come true or do I die alone waiting like the petals of a wilting flower fall off until there is none [...]

Rekindling a romantic relationship from the past is quite acceptable. Remember those special moments you spent together that you wished would last, sadly all good things come to and end. You kept thinking what would have happened if the two of you were still together. But maybe they still might have feelings for you and [...]
